The Stopover Handbook in French Polynesia booklet brings together practical information and useful addresses for your stopovers in the islands that you will visit. Although each individual island differs from the next, they are all linked together by the ma'ohi culture, which is a source of inspiration, of perception and different life experiences. Experiencing this culture gives visitors a real opportunity to step into a completely different world. Welcome to these islands which are as precious and fragile as they are sparsely distributed within the vastness of the South Pacific. Welcome to the invisible continent that is the Polynesian triangle. la ora na Maeva e Manava.

Take a deep breath when you arrive in the Marquesas Islands. Visitors are often impressed by the culture and the warm and generous nature of the people. These high islands are the sentinels as you arrive in French Polynesia.

TUAMOTU

The atolls in the north of the archipelago enclose lagoons with treasures of natural beauty. You'll find deserted anchorages that are unspoiled and truly exotic.

23

The urban area where most of Polynesia's services and administrations are concentrated and the Peninsula which keeps an authentic Polynesian flavor.

Great for some nice escapes in nature while staying close to Tahiti.

LEEWARD ISLANDS

26

The sailors' islands, offering a unique nautical playground which satisfies even the most demanding visitors due to its diversity of tall islands including Raiatea and Tahaa, Bora Bora, Maupiti and Huahine.

FRENCH POLYNESIA GENERAL MAP

The Protected Marine Areas have been given special protection in order to maintain their biological diversity, ecological processes, natural resources and their associated cultural values. There are various categories of Protected Marine Areas.

The integral natural reserves

Strictly protected areas mainly managed for scientific purposes

ACCES FORBIDDEN

The habitat /species management areas

Protected areas mainly aimed to protect particular species or habitats

The protected landscapes

Protected area mainly aimed at safeguarding the landscape and/or for recreational purposes

The regulated fishing areas

In Tahiti (Faa'a, Pirae, Arue - Tetiaroa included-, Mahina) and Tatakoto : fishing is forbidden or limited, especially fishing with a net.

The PGEM areas

In Moorea and in the seven townships of Fakarava, the PGEM regulates fishing and mooring areas (interdiction indicated by yellow buoys)

The UNESCO biosphere reserve

This label applies to the seven atolls of the township of Fakarava. When you are in the atoll's town hall. Moorings is forbidden over the coral less than 200m from the shore. Anchoring is forbidden inside the marked navigation channels and inside pay moorings, even biodegradable items.

The Rahui: ressources areas managed by the community

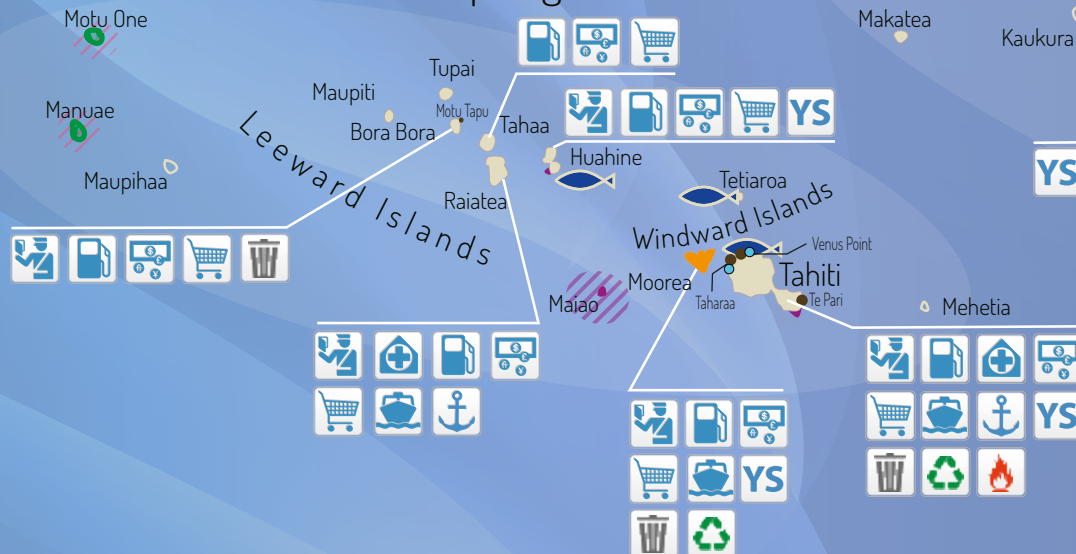

Unwritten rules are defined by the communities. In small islands, report to the local regulations applied regarding anchoring and fishing.

Marine educative area (AME)

A marine educative area is a small scale coastal area managed by the children's training center, in conformity with the articles of a charter.

MAEVA & WELCOME IN FRENCH POLYNESIA

You're coming from abroad, flying a French or foreign flag
and sailing for pleasure:

- All persons on board must go through immigration formalities with the Border Police. The documents to be presented at this checkpoint depend on your nationality and the desired length of your stay in French Polynesia.
- Any owner or captain of a pleasure boat arriving in French Polynesia from abroad by sea must report to the Papeete Port customs office in Tahiti to make an entry declaration. Your vessel may stay in French Polynesia and benefit from the temporary admission regime for a maximum of 24 consecutive months. In the event of force majeure, this period may be extended by a further 3 months.
- If a yacht or pleasure boat does not make its initial landfall at Tahiti, it may dock or anchor at any of the entry ports listed on the right below. Vessel owners or captains must then report to the island's gendarmerie brigade to complete the formalities for entering Polynesian territory: customs and immigration.

POLICE NATIONALE

DOUANES
& DROITS
INDIRECTS

Initial landfall and clearance into French Polynesia must be completed by yachts and other pleasure craft only at one of the following ports, bays or harbors:

Windward Islands:

Tahiti (Papeete);
Moorea (Afareaitu)

Leeward Islands:

Raiatea (Uturoa); Huahine (Fare); Bora
Bora (Vaitape)

Marquesas Islands:

Nuku Hiva (Taiohae);
Ua Pou (Hakahau); Hiva Oa (Atuona)

Austral Islands:

Tubai (Mataura); Rurutu (Moerai);
Raivavae (Rairua)

Tuamotu-Gambier Archipelagoes:

Rangiroa (Tiputa); Mangareva (Rikitea)

A SINGLE DECLARATION FOR PLEASURE VESSELS Simplified, accessible and paperless entry and exit

A single declaration for pleasure craft, implemented by the Regional Customs Department of French Polynesia and the Territorial Department of the National Police, is designed to enable yachtsmen to complete their customs declarations on arrival and departure, to fulfill their declaratory obligations for entering and leaving, staying and working on the territory of French Polynesia, and to ensure the search and rescue of yachtsmen in the event of accidents and other events at sea. It is based on a legal obligation and the safeguarding of vital interests.

PROCEDURES AND APPROACHES UPON ARRIVAL

ENTRY PORTS

13 entry ports in French Polynesia.

Decree n°759 of July 13rd 1987

The entry formalities must be completed in Nuku Hiva, Ua Pou, Hiva Oa, Tubuai, Rurutu, Raivavae, Rangiroa, Mangareva, Moorea, Raiatea, Huahine, Bora Bora and Tahiti.

Vessels must fly the yellow flag until the formalities are completed (immigration, customs, phytosanitary) and the courtesy flag.

ON YOUR ARRIVAL

You must imperatively:

- Perform customs and immigration formalities in Tahiti or at the gendarmerie of your port of entry. Provide a list of passengers and crew, the list of restricted or prohibited goods and all passports with necessary valid visas. Online declarations for entry (see page 4) & to reserve moorings (see page 8).

- Tahiti & Moorea Entry/Exit Authorizations: only if you are making a stopover at Tahiti or Moorea, an entry authorization must be obtained from the Capitainerie du Port Autonome in Papeete or by email (traffimaritime@portppt.pf), as well as an exit authorization.

IMMIGRATION

(Border police / STPAF)

Formalities to be done at the office of STPAF in Faa'a (Tahiti Faa'a Airport) if you enter through Tahiti or Moorea. Otherwise, to be done at the gendarmerie of your port of entry. Note that if you make a change of crew during your stay, you must declare to the STPAF in Faa'a and update your pleasurecraft declaration - see previous page.

Each crewmember must present a valid passport and justify and a proof of health insurance coverage. French citizens may stay and work without a visa. Those coming from the E.U. (except from France) may stay without a visa under certain conditions and citizens from other countries must have a visa. This visa must imperatively carry the mention "Valid for French Polynesia".

For non-E.U. passport holders, it is mandatory to show a return ticket to your home country. The best option is to book a refundable ticket with the airline. Or use the services of a local yacht agent by which you will be exempted from this obligation.

It is highly recommended that you visit the following websites before leaving:

- www.tahiti.aeroport.pf
- www.polynesie.francaise.pref.gouv.fr

CUSTOMS

The formalities and verification of your situation are to be done upon arrival. If you enter through the port of Papeete, go to Papeete's Customs Office. Otherwise, go to the gendarmerie of your entry port from the first official clearance island.

The Customs form, which is given to you when you arrive must be filled out and mailed to "Direction des Douanes" de Papeete within 24h. dr-polynesie@douane.finances.gouv.fr

Remember : Failure to declare one's arrival or departure is a violation of FP's Customs Code and is liable for penalties.

According to decree n° 401 CM of March 27, 2013 modified by decree n° 991 of July 9, 2020, a vessel may stay under the regime of temporary admission in Polynesian waters without clearing customs and suspended from import duties and taxes for a period of 24 consecutive months under the following conditions:

- The owner or user of the boat must not be a resident of French Polynesia nor work during his stay.
- The vessel must be registered outside of French Polynesia, it shall not be sold, rented or lent to a third party.
- Beyond the period of 24 consecutive months under temporary stay, you must leave French Polynesia waters with your boat (minimum time of 6 months is required between 2 stays in French Polynesia) If you want to base your boat more than 24 months, you have to «import» it with a customs procedure..

SKIPPER'S WELCOME BRIEFING

Tourism and maritime and maritime authorities of French Polynesia, with the involvement of the tourism committees of the islands concerned, have designed welcome and information documents for international yachtsmen.

Some committees can provide you with a lively presentation, with commentary and their own recommendations.

These presentations are drawn up in conjunction with the administrative departments, the Communes and the tourism committees and associations of the more popular islands. These presentations can be viewed by request at the tourism committees office, or downloaded as pdf files (see QR code below).

They are structured along the same lines, with general information and key contacts for each port of call, as well as practical advice and recommendations, descriptions of the various authorized anchorages, their exposure and activities or points of interest in the vicinity, followed by information on the rest of the itinerary, either in the same archipelago or for the next archipelago.

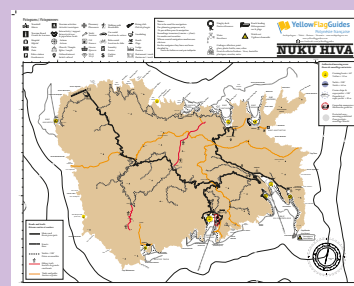

A veritable compendium of practical information specific to yachting, these briefings also recall the components of a successful stay and stopover, the blunders to avoid, and the most important rules to respect, in terms of good manners and respect for the inhabitants of these islands and communes.

Access to online storage (GoogleDrive) via the following QR Code:

CRUISER ORIENTED CHARTS

In addition to the presentations freely available on request, the islands' committee of Tourism offer specific charts for yachtsmen, specifying authorized anchorages and recommended activities.

The list of committees offering these services is updated on a monthly basis. Don't hesitate to contact the committee on each of the islands you visit.

NAVIGATION

Be careful between the atolls, visible only when less than 10 NM away. Strong currents in the channels between the atolls. In the 76 atolls, there are few navigable passes. When there is strong SE winds or heavy swells, the current coming out of the passes can climb to 6 knots. A tidal bore can rise inside or outside of the passes. Enter during slack tide. Tide table on www.shom.fr

There are side markings in the passes of the main islands and sometimes in channels leading to villages.

Be careful in the lagoons, on-sight navigation, have the sun at your back or straight above so you can see the colors and the coral heads, as well as the pearl farms buoys.

Anchoring recommended on the east side in July-August when strong E/SE winds blow.

Authorized anchorage areas:
visit www.escales.gov.pf

Fresh water sources are rare. Fill up in the Marquesas and refill with rainwater if your boat doesn't have a watermaker (desalinization unit)

RANGIROA

ACCESS

- Avatoru and Tiputa Passes: on the north side, marked, possible strong current (8 knots), to enter with entering current or reverse. Very choppy current by SE wind.

MOORINGS

- On the east side: facing the Kia Ora, motu Faama, motu Mauahatea, motu Otepipi, Naonao and Mahitu, or toward the islets of Kiroria, Atiati Rahi, Hauone.
- On the west side: in good weather, at the "Lagon bleu", motu Paio and motu Pomariorio.
- Avatoru: wharf in deep water, marina, fuel delivery to the wharf for over 100 L, stores, medical and dental center, post office, banks, etc.
- Tiputa: wharf, small marina, stores, dumpster, post office, banks, 5 diving clubs, dolphin's show at the sunset, water trail in the pass

Upon arrival, go and pay the garbage tax (2500 XPF/Week), and visitor's tax at Avatoru Town Hall.

APATAKI

ACCESS

- Pakaka Pass: to the southwest (120 m wide and 25 m deep), generally easy to pass. Exiting current rarely higher than 5 knots, counter current along the south, helping in case of strong exiting current. Proximity of the main village of Niutahi (wharf, airport, grocery store, post office, infirmary).
- Tehere Pass: NE point of the island. Wide and deep, easy passing, but without markings. Ideal for fishing and diving.

MOORINGS

- Motu Rua Vahine: on the south side.
- Tamaro: on the SE side, facing the Assam pearl farm and the shipyard site (water, gasoline, gas, supply of vegetables and fresh products). Sheltered from major winds.
- Teonemahina Point: NE side, well sheltered, magnificent environment.

THE TREASURES »

DIVING IN POLYNESIA

A UNIQUE EXPERIENCE

The first image coming to mind about diving in Tahiti and her islands, is the presence of 'large' fish: sharks, rays and cetaceans.

In July 2020, the journal 'Nature' published a study about reef shark populations throughout the world and ranked French Polynesia on top of the podium.

There are more than twenty shark species including the emblematic Mokorran (hammerhead shark) or the tiger shark. In addition, there are lots of manta rays in all the archipelagos and around the islands of Tahiti, on 'manta cleaning stations' or simply moving around.

© B. Beaussier, Tahiti Tourisme

The other specificity of the Polynesian waters is the abundance of marine wildlife offshore (tuna, barracuda, kingfish...) and on the coral reefs (turtle, parrot fish, grouper, angel fish, lionfish, bass and many others...)

About fifty diving centres are active in the whole archipelagos, allowing to discover the seabed, equivalent to a territory as vast as Europe.

From the Tuamotu, globally renowned for the shark concentration in its passes, to the Australs with the most transparent waters of the planet, or the lagoon of Bora Bora and its eagle rays or lemon sharks, or Tahiti and Moorea: each island will reveal its unique underwater identity.

GOOD HABITS:

Courtesy: inquire about diving clubs of the island or the nearby island and inform the authorities about your excursion if it is not supervised. The respect of the underwater heritage is crucial for the population and authorities of French Polynesia.

Snorkelling: no trampling nor coral collection. Be careful with underwater fauna when kicking with diving fins.

SWIMMING WITH THE WHALES

Each year, from July to November, dozens of humpback whales migrate inside the Polynesian waters to calve.

The Islands of Tahiti remain one of the rare areas in the world to offer such a good whale observation quality and the opportunity to plunge and snorkel in their company.

© B. Beaussier, Tahiti Tourisme

FIRST MARINE SANCTUARY FOR WHALES AND SHARKS

From 2002, French Polynesia issued a decree designating its territorial waters as the largest sanctuary for whales and marine mammals.

The list of the sharks protected in the Polynesian waters was adopted in 2006 and completed in 2012: consequently, from small to large, they are all protected in the Polynesian waters.

Before plunging, find out about each island's habits, approaches and effective respect measures towards marine mammals and sharks.

PARTNERS & BRANDS:

OU, QUAND, COMMENT, MAKE A COMMITMENT TO RESPONSIBLE CRUISING

International yachtsmen: Polynesia and its people welcome you to their majestic and fragile islands and atolls.

You can play a major role in preserving these natural areas, while strengthening the historic bonds of mutual respect between islanders and sailors.

You'll soon realize why French Polynesia is considered by many circumnavigators to be one of the most beautiful sailing destinations in the world. It's a real privilege to sail there, to meet the Polynesians and discover their traditions and culture. But it's also a duty, a heightened responsibility for yachtsmen to protect and respect them - and their ecosystems and coral reefs - just as previous generations of islanders did.

Today, these fragile islands are facing increased pressure on their lagoons, due in part to the growing number of sailboats on anchorages that were completely unregulated. Therefore it is not surprising that new rules and regulations for anchorages are being introduced to protect and preserve these islands and their marine environment.

When you're in port, make sure you know about and respect the regulations in force, as they are there to protect underwater ecosystems, or to give free access to schooners, liners and other boats needed to keep the local economy running smoothly. These regulations help to reduce conflicts of use within bays, infrastructures or lagoon areas between the various users of the water body. This is the case, for example, in Nuku Hiva, Hiva Oa, Tahiti, Moorea, Huahine, Bora Bora and Fakarava.

For more information, visit the maritime authorities' website:

■ www.escales.gov.pf

WASTE MANAGEMENT

Don't leave your garbage on a small island, especially in local residents' private garbage cans.

Their waste is often difficult enough for small communities to manage. Don't burn your garbage on the beach.

- Make sure you only dispose of your household waste on islands with landfill sites (Nuku Hiva or Ua Pou in the Marquesas Islands, and various places in the Society islands, but if possible, keep it on board during your stopovers in the Tuamotus.

- Recyclable waste (cans, plastic bottles, etc.) can only be processed in Tahiti, Moorea, Bora Bora and Raiatea.

- Keep your hazardous waste on board (expired fuses, oils, batteries) until you arrive in Tahiti, where you'll find dedicated collection points.

Ask at the mayor's office about garbage policy in the stopover islands.

RESPECT THE LOCAL ECOSYSTEM

- Be aware of fishing regulations before casting a line.
■ www.ressources-marines.gov.pf/
- If fishing is permitted, catch only what you need to eat, not to fill your freezer!
- Anchor or moor only in authorized areas, and on sandy or muddy bottoms, but never on coral.
- Use sewage tanks in coastal waters and lagoons.
- Don't scrape your hulls when anchored in bays or lagoons, to avoid introducing invasive marine species.
- Respect private property, including seaside property.
- Don't pick fruit without asking permission.

RESPECT TRADITIONS AND CULTURE

- Before arriving on a new island or archipelago, find out more about its customs, history and culture.
- You can barter useful things with the locals, but not alcohol, or offer to help, share know-how, skills...
- Showing curiosity about an island's history, culture and daily life is an excellent way to enhance your own travel experience, while showing respect for your hosts.

BORA BORA

New rules and regulations about moorings in the lagoon of Bora Bora:

Since January 1st, 2020, anchoring is prohibited inside the lagoon of Bora Bora, in order to protect its underwater flora and infrastructure (cables and piping). To facilitate your stopover, they have installed 100 moorings, located in 5 large areas around the island (green zones).

Reserve and pay for your mooring with Bora Bora Mooring & Services manager: Ph. 89 440 888 • bbmoorings@gmail.com • VHF 9

Bora Bora moorings:

You must have a black water holding tank, because no waste is allowed to be dumped overboard. Pump out service available at the pier in Vaitape. Buy a water card from BBMS and refill your water tank at the pier. Drop both recyclable and non-recyclable garbage at the pier as well. Check it more infos with Bora Bora Mooring & Services.

ACCESS

- Teavanui Pass: North toward the port of Vaitape. Airport on Motu Mute. Air Tahiti boat shuttle available from Vaitape to the airport.

EXCURSIONS TO THE TE MEHANI

Exceptional view point, the Te Mehani plateaus are home to various plants and small trees that are protected and strictly endemic to Raiatea. One is the tiare 'apetahi, which is the emblem of Raiatea and has been celebrated in many local legends. It is also an example of Polynesia's plants that are threatened by extinction.

Remember:

- Thank you for staying on the hiking paths, an ecological restoration is being done: we are replanting tiare 'apetahi for future generations as well as several endemic plants.
- Do not step on, cut or pick any plant.
- Take out your backpacks when coming close to the tiare 'apetahi, no more than 5 people around and keep a distance relative to the plant, avoid touching the plant.
- Preferably use a professional guide.

The Te mehani rahi plateau is mostly private. Please contact the Tuihana Association (87 79 37 12) or the Service Développement Rural (40 60 21 00) before any hike for your safety.

The Te mehani 'ute'ute plateau is listed as a protected area and its access is regulated and strictly submitted to authorization.

TAPUTAPUĀTEA

The site of Marae Taputapuātea on the island of Raiatea is an ancient cultural and political complex, which played a major role in the history of Polynesian civilization. Located strategically between land sea at the Mā-tahi-rā-i-te-ra'i point, it is home to many monuments, the most notable of which are the marae, open air temples and Polynesian sacred spaces: the Taputapuātea marae is the most monumental (whose large slabs carved in coral rise up to 3 meters high), the Hau-viri marae (facing the pass and on which Te Papa o Tea Rūea, the inauguration stone of the Huiari Tamatoa - ancient chiefs - stands in the center of the court), the 'Ōpū-teina marae, the Tau-aitū marae and the marae-o-Hiro.

Taputapuātea was the religious and political center of the Tamatoa chiefdom of 'Ōpoa, which reigned in the 17th and 18th centuries through a network of religious and political alliances throughout eastern Polynesia, particularly through the mastery of canoe building and navigation. The spread of the cult of the god 'Oro to whom the Taputapuātea marae was dedicated, was manifested by the replication of many marae Taputapuātea in eastern Polynesia (Windward islands, Tuamotu, Cook Islands, Australs, etc.) or the adoption of a name as a place name (Hawaii, New Zealand).

This sacred site is also inseparable from the traditional territory of the former 'Ōpoa chiefdom, of which it was the center: the landscape is dominated by the sacred Tea-ē-tapu mountain, forests home to many archaeological remains in the 'Ōpoa valley, the sacred Te Ava Mo'a pass, and the islet (motu) 'Ā-tara. The cultural scenery of Taputapuātea including these marae is now on the list of UNESCO World Heritage sites since July 9th 2017.

WHERE? WHEN? HOW?

PROTECT MARINE LIFE

THE SEA, A RICH BUT FRAGILE ECOSYSTEM

THE IMPORTANCE OF CORAL REEFS

Coral reefs are at the base of the Polynesian marine ecosystem and host a rich and diverse fauna and flora. Fragile as they are very sensitive to the quality of water, reefs are built by colonies of minuscule animals, the coral. To continue to preserve the quality of Polynesian waters and the health of coral reefs. Please be respectful.

© Te mana o te moana

GOOD PRACTICES

Moorings: when available, use mooring buoys, because anchoring can cause coral damage and spread invasive species. Use the available mooring areas.

Public maritime domain: using the public maritime domain; do not enter private properties to access them. Respect local prohibitions (motu and coasts).

Waste management: dumping waste in the lagoons is strictly prohibited (possible fines). Your waste must be sorted and disposed of in waste bins on land.

Snorkeling: do not step on or collect coral. Do not hit the bottom fauna with your fins.

PROTECT AND REGULATED SPECIES

Sharks, marine mammals, sea turtles, manta rays, shells (troca, burgau, conch, giant mussel, helmet, triton) and black coral are protected all year round. Capturing, possessing and eating these species is prohibited under penalty of fine or boat seizure.

Some species of marine animals are protected according to the area or the season (like lobsters) or are subjected to a minimum size when captured (like the "benitier" clam). Get information at each island, before catching anything.

EMBLEMATIC SPECIES

SHARKS

Some twenty species of sharks have been identified in the archipelagos. Black tips, gray or lemon sharks are common. Some passes in the Tuamotu or bays in the Marquesas attract remarkable shark concentrations at the world scale.

TURTLES

5 species of sea turtles live in Polynesian waters. The green turtle and the "imbriquée" turtles can be seen in the lagoons or behind the reef. Green turtles regularly lay their eggs in Polynesia.

CETACEANS

16 species come regularly to Polynesia. The bottlenose dolphin, is often seen in bays and passes. Humpback whales are the most common. They are normally present from July to December when they reproduce. In French Polynesia, these species are followed by scientists and often observed by the public.

In case you encounter one of these animals, do not hesitate to also participate by visiting the following link:

www.requinsdepolynesie.com

CETACEANS WATCHING

- Do not go straight toward a group of cetaceans, but approach it at an angle of about 30° relative to its direction.
- Do not exceed a speed of 3 knots within a 300 m radius.
- Do not encircle them or separate members from their group. Keep your course and speed steady. Avoid all changes in direction and motor speed.
- All boats must stay on the same side of the group.
- Do not surprise them or trap them between a reef and your boat.
- If an animal comes close, put your engine in neutral. Do not stop it in order to remain maneuverable, while being recognizable by the animal

SAFETY RECOMMENDATIONS

Very few marine species are dangerous in Polynesia.

© L. Pozzoli

Use caution when walking in the water. While diving or snorkeling do not touch fire coral. Any sting by a stonefish, resting at the bottom, must be taken care of immediately in an emergency medical facility.

Ciguatera (or "grate") is present in French Polynesia. Do not eat species known to be poisonous and/or whose sale is prohibited. Consult

IF YOU FIND A BIRD

Call the Polynesian Ornithological Society, SOP Manu, which will pick it up.

- Handle it as little as possible (avoid stressing the animal).
- Place it in a carton pierced with holes, in a quiet and shady place.
- Do not feed it.

EXIT FORMALITIES

FORMALITIES

Immigration formalities upon exit:

If you are leaving French Polynesia via Tahiti or Moorea, register your departure with the Papeete port yachting Service (contact details on page 1).

Customs formalities upon exit:

You can come to the customs office 24 hours before departure. If you're leaving on a Monday, remember to come on Friday. If your next destination requires an exit clearance form, please go to the Autonomous Port of Motu Uta to obtain one (trafficmaritime@portppt.pf). This document will enable you to benefit from tax-free diesel fuel.

Make sure you have completed all the formalities on the the formalities on your online custom and immigration declaration form (see p. 4).

Entry and exit conditions for foreigners in French Polynesia are the responsibility of the Service Territorial de la Police aux Frontières (STPAF). If you are not a citizen of the European Union, please contact the Border Police.

IMPORTATION OF EQUIPMENT AND SPARE PART

The suspension of duties and taxes is granted to the boat under the Boat Temporary Admission. The previous dispositions also apply to spare parts, equipment and parts used in operations of repair of a vessel under temporary admission.

Spare parts, equipments and parts covered in the previous paragraph must be declared to Customs under temporary admission (DAUP unguaranteed model) and are declared to codification 99.08.00.00

Non residents do not entitled to the postage free allowance. They will therefore have to fill a customs declaration for their temporary import, regardless of its amount.

To benefit from it on imported equipment, the replaced equipment must be either destroyed (destruction certificate required) or exported (exit customs declaration) or released for consumption (by paying the appropriate taxes). If the imported equipment is not a replacement or a repair, it will be released for consumption and does not benefit from duties and taxes exemptions.

As a derogation to the dispositions of the precedent paragraph, the suspension benefit is also granted:

- either for general interest reasons,
- or when the parts and equipment are included in the entry declaration and are subject of a later delivery.

Depending of the value of the requested equipment, you are advised to go through the services of a freight-forwarder or buy from local merchants. Feel free to request quotes or inquire locally before ordering from outside of French Polynesia.

Moreover, if your purchase (equipment or fueling equipment) is concomitant of departure and that the merchant agrees to grant you the regime of final exportation (DAUP Modele E100), you will benefit from a tax refund on VAT. If you pay the tax, no exit formality is required.

FOR ANY INFORMATION,
WE ADVISE YOU TO CONSULT THE

BOATS TRANSPORT BY CARGO

You wish to leave Polynesia but have your boat repatriated by a cargo ship. It is possible. Specialized companies such as Freight E Com will give you all the necessary advice.

TAX-FREE FUEL

- The Papeete Customs Office (only) can give you an authorization of tax-free fuel. This authorization is valid 6 months.
- If you have a maritime agent, he can get this authorization for you as soon as you arrive in the Marquesas.
